

Under the Licensing (Scotland) Act 2005, anyone authorising the retail sale of alcohol will have to hold a personal licence. In order to qualify for a personal licence, an applicant must hold a licensing qualification which is:

- Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) accredited, and Government approved.
- One Exam 40 multi-choice questions 70% pass mark

This Level 5 Scottish Certificate for Personal Licence Holders covers the syllabus set by Government, to enable candidates to understand the law in relation to:

- Roles, responsibilities and functions of licensing authorities within the framework of the licensing objectives
- Application process for a personal licence
- The role and legal responsibilities of the personal licence holder, and the penalties relating to failure to comply with the law
- Premises licence
- Operating plans
- The role and duties of the Designated Premises Manager (DPM)
- Unauthorised licensable activities
- Permitted temporary licensable activities
- Rights of entry to licensed premises
- Police powers with regard to suspension and closure of licensed premises
- Specific prohibitions for the sale of alcohol
- The strengths of alcoholic drinks, and the effects of alcohol on the human body
- The protection of children from harm
- The responsible retail sale of alcohol

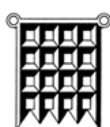

How long is the training course? Where can I take it? How much will it cost?

The Scottish Certificate for Personal Licence Holders has been designed to be completed in a day (although it is recommended that an hour or two of self-study should be undertaken), and includes a short multiple-choice exam.

A comprehensive handbook, together with training both presented in an easy to follow format, supports the qualification and covers all the information needed for the examination.
